Preface

Hong Kong protests had drawn international attentions. Protesters proactively reached out to foreign governments and foreign press on how righteous they are and why Hong Kong and Chinese governments are wrong.

But do the Hong Kong community really support the protesters or even agree with them? Protest activists present materials against Hong Kong and Chinese governments, but have materials against protest leaders ever been presented to foreign governments or foreign press?

According to news, more than 60 Hong Kong protest activists are now seeking asylum in Australia, the United Kingdom, Canada or the United States, looking to join your community permanently as asylum seekers. It is best to know about them.

I have read through Hong Kong newspapers, statistics and videos, either in traditional Chinese (Hong Kong language, not mainland Chinese language) or in English, interviewed a number of Hong Kong citizens currently in Hong Kong, plus, my personal experience in both British colony Hong Kong and Hong Kong SAR of China.

I found that many materials against Hong Kong protest leaders or the protest itself have never been presented in foreign news. Some have not even been translated from traditional Chinese (Hong Kong language) to English.

As a graduate from a top university in Hong Kong, native in both traditional Chinese (Hong Kong language) and simplified Chinese (mainland Chinese language), I am trying to give you more all-rounded and hopefully unbiased facts about Hong Kong protests 2019-2020, Hong Kong society before the protests, how Hong Kong society was like after it returned to China and back to the time when Hong Kong was a British colony in the 1990s.

As I am no longer living in Hong Kong nor China, I am under no interference by China nor by protesters and am presenting you with facts, evidence and sources whereas possible.

You can form your own opinion whether you still support these Hong Kong protests or not ...

1. Hunger strike? Really?????

Copying from Beijing students in 1989, on 01-Dec-2014, Hong Kong protest leader, Joshua Wong, declared to go on a hunger strike infinitely until the government agree on his/his supports' requests. He and his group, of course, had informed the foreign press:

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2014/dec/01/hong-kong-protest-leader-joshua-wong-hunger-strike>

On 04-Dec-2014, after Joshua Wong was spotted to have secretly taken syrup, he apologised to his supporters with a justification that his blood sugar level was low and a medical doctor advised him to take syrup. (So what's the point of a hunger strike? To stay healthy??? And perhaps some medical doctors would advise people to go for hunger strikes???)

You can verify the same using a translator from traditional Chinese to English.

Another source: Hong Kong local newspaper:

<https://hk.aboluowang.com/2014/1205/481648.html>

International news only reported he went on a hunger strike, but have no reports on his being spotted to have secretly taken syrup on the 3rd day of his hunger strike. Obviously, Joshua's team had not proactively informed the foreign press about the truth and Hong Kong locals saw no need to inform foreign press when they were not impressed by him.

Luckily, he was spotted to have taken syrup. Otherwise, we would all believe that he did go on a hunger strike.
